MARKETING FARM PRODUCTS TO BE DISCUSSED

tors of marketing, various sections of the Round-up will take up in detail the preparation of farm crops for market. The cost of producing various crops under varying conditions will also be discussed and the entire subject of farm management studied.

The business side of farming will be one of the main themes for discussion at coming Farmers Round-up and Housekeepers conference to be conducted at the Utah Agricultural College, from January 10 to 15, according to Director R. J. Evans of the extension division of the college. "We are calling in the business experts and rural economics specialists from our college faculty to aid us this year in the belief that the farmer must first of all be a business man if he is to be a success," declared Dr. Evans in announcing this subject for the Round-up.

The School of Commerce and Business administration under the direction of Prof. George B. Hendricks, will have charge of the discussions in farm economics. Prof. Hendricks is the federal agent in marketing in Utah and has conducted a number of important marketing investigations in the state during the past summer. He has placed the direct supervision of the work in marketing during the Round-up under Dr. W. L. Wanlass, professor of business administration and marketing at the college.

"The fact that this round-up is to stress the business side of farming and especially the economics of the marketing of farm products is to me the most significant single factor in the development of Utah's agriculture," said Prof. Hendricks in discussing plans for the subject matter of the Round-up. "It shows that a proper emphasis is now being placed upon the final processes in production. In the past we rightly placed most emphasis upon getting the crops out of the soil. Now that we have largely perfected that process we must learn how to market those crops efficiently."

"The last few years have demonstrated disastrously how helpless the farmer is under present marketing conditions. During the period of abnormally high prices for farm crops, the farmer reaped only a fair price while the middleman secured the major share of the returns. Now, with the great farm staples selling at prices below the cost of production, the farmer must take the loss. If our agriculture is to continue to exist, our farmers must place themselves in a position to secure a fair return on their labor and a fair interest on their investment."

"Our work in marketing during the Round-up will be designed to give the farmer just the practical instruction necessary to meet his own conditions."

MRS. NANCY SHARP of Los Angeles, who says she received one of the greatest surprises of her life when Tanlac completely restored her health after she had almost lost hope of ever getting well. Declares she suffered for twelve long years.

"After seeing the wonderful results my husband obtained from Tanlac I began taking the medicine myself, and now we both agree that it is the grandest medicine on earth," said Mrs. Nancy Sharp, a prominent and highly esteemed resident of Los Angeles, Calif., living at 921 Camulus street, whose husband is proprietor of the Merchants Express Co.

"During the twelve years that I suffered with indigestion and stomach trouble I tried nearly every medicine I heard about, but nothing helped me and I lost faith in everything. So my wonderful restoration to health has been one of the greatest surprises of my life."

"I began to feel an improvement on finishing my second bottle of Tanlac and now after taking six bottles I am like a new woman. I have a splendid appetite, eat three hearty meals a day, enjoy them thoroughly and am never troubled in the least with indigestion or any other disagreeable after effects."

"Before taking Tanlac most everything I ate caused my stomach to rebel and I would suffer for hours afterwards. I was so dreadfully nervous that many nights I never closed my eyes in sleep, but now I am not the least nervous, and I sleep like a child. My strength has been wonderfully increased, and I have much more energy."

"I just wish it was so everybody troubled like I was knew about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Logan by the City Drug company and by leading druggists everywhere. Adv
